Dear Selden:

I find to my horror that I have not answered your letter of November 2nd. Apparently, since it was written on Air Mail tissue, it got clipped to something else.

However, I want you to accept my belated thanks for your kind message as well as for your remarks in connection with [redacted]. I hope that his replacement will be equally good. As you know, it is very hard to recruit people of the calibre I would like but we have not been unsuccessful in our efforts. The younger ones especially that have been coming in lately are particularly promising.

I have a great many friends in Holland and my relations with Prince Bernhard particularly are close and personal. Aside from our war association, we have shot and fished together in various places and I am very fond of him. If you have the opportunity, will you pass him an affectionate message from me. I am afraid I have been as remiss in answering his letters as I was in answering this one.

Faithfully your friend,

Redell
